

The position of life trustee was created to recognize and honor individual citizens and professional trustees who, over the years, have given unusually outstanding leadership, service and support to the national association.

The life trustees have taken an active part in the affairs of NRPA and its predecessor organizations. The life trustee position provides a means of continued involvement in board meetings in an ex-officio capacity. Each individual's experience and input will be extremely valuable to the NRPA Board of Trustees and the association overall.
